What makes a Japanese couple from the last century interesting all over the world? Why an exhibition about them decades later and thousands of kilometres away?

It is the hope and message of peace that their lives radiate.

Despite and precisely because of the experience of the atomic bombing of Nagasaki, Takashi Nagai discovers a new life full of hope, joy, happiness and peace within himself.

The exhibition shows how the Japanese doctor arrived at this experience.

Today there is war in Europe. His message of peace therefore proves to be highly topical and relevant for our time.
